Dear Mr. Jones:

Thank you very much for your support at our Annual Charity Auction on September 23, 2010. At the auction, you purchased the items listed on the attached page. The amount you paid for each item is also indicated on the attached page along with its estimated fair market value. The estimated market value matches the value published in the Auction Catalog. For items where the estimated value is marked *, we were unable to determine the fair market value prior to the auction. Therefore, your purchase price is considered fair market value.

Federal tax law permits you to deduct the excess (if any) of your gift over the value of items you receive in exchange for each gift, and not in the aggregate. Again, we thank you very much for your support.

Sincerely,

John R. Post
President

Sample Annual Year-End Letter to Volunteers Related to Deducting Out-of-Pocket Costs

XYZ Charity
123 Elm Street
Orlando, Florida 32801

DATE

Mr. David Jones
567 Tree Lane
Orlando, Florida 32801

Dear Mr. Jones:

Thank you so much for the volunteer services you provided to our organization during the year 2010. Your efforts in serving as a (describe volunteer position) have contributed greatly to the accomplishment of our mission.

While federal tax law does not permit volunteers to deduct the value of their personal services as charitable contributions, volunteers are permitted to deduct out-of-pocket costs they incur in providing such services. For example, if you purchased and donated materials in connection with your volunteer services, your out-of-pocket costs for the materials may be deductible. Other examples include your out-of-pocket costs for travel, lodging, etc. in connection with providing the services. Federal law also permits volunteers who use their vehicles in providing services to charities to deduct their mileage costs at a standard charitable rate of 14¢ per mile. (This rate applies to 2010, and may change in the future.) Of course, the costs described in this paragraph are deductible only if the volunteers are not reimbursed for them.

In order to deduct the costs described above, you must have proper documentation to support the amounts deducted. You may find IRS Publication 526, “Charitable Contributions” helpful in this regard. We have enclosed a copy of the (year) edition of Publication 526 for your convenience. You should consult your tax advisor to determine the amount, if any, that you may actually deduct on your own return.

This letter will serve to confirm that we provided you with no goods or services in exchange for your contributions of the services described herein, or the related out-of-pocket costs you may have incurred.

Thank you again for your generous service.

Sincerely,

John R. Post
President
