If a student has a red flag notification, what can you do?

A red notification indicates that a student has been struggling and could benefit from your 1-to-1 assistance. Logan may need additional encouragement or support in this group of DreamBox lessons. You can view the detailed student progress page to review what Logan is learning now on DreamBox, and consider sitting in with Logan while working through DreamBox problems.

Some other things to look for when working with a student who has a red flag notification are:

- Check to be sure headphones are working and the volume is at an appropriate level.
- Check to see if the student understands the directions and they know how to use the HELP button.
- Check to see if the student is clicking the STOP button before finishing a lesson.

If a student has a yellow flag notification, what can you do?

If a significant percentage of a student's time on DreamBox is being spent outside of lessons, you can ask your students to only spend their time in the Adventure Park and avoid the Carnival and My House areas. You can also restrict your entire class's access to the Carnival and My House areas to only outside of school hours by adjusting the Carnival settings on the Teacher Dashboard.
