

Invitation to financial services network event

15th of December 2010, 5-7 pm

The Danish Bankers Association, Amaliegade 7, Copenhagen

Expat in Denmark and the Danish Bankers Association would like to invite professionals working in financial services – Danes as well as expats - for an afternoon of networking and insight into the future regulation of the financial sector.

For this event Chief Economist of the Danish Bankers Association, Niels Storm Stenbæk, will give a presentation on the future financial regulation.

Through the financial crisis there has been an increased focus on regulation of the financial sector and a number of authorities and international organisations have launched proposals and initiatives to tighten financial regulation - enhanced capital requirements, implementation of leverage ratio, improved liquidity risk management and change in provision rules being some of the proposals.

An important question is how these initiatives will work together and what their total effect will be upon not only the financial sector but also on the real economy. Niels Storm Stenbæk will give his view on the future regulation and the consequences for both the banking sector and the overall economy.

The presentation will be followed by a Question & Answer session, and networking with beverages and snacks.

Registration is open to all persons with a working interest of financial & economic matters. Your registration is valid upon receipt of confirmation from Expat in Denmark, where upon you will be sent a personal invitation.
