Pamphlet Format

You have full creative freedom on how to design your pamphlet. But when it comes to the format, it must have the following:

1. Company Name and Logo

Your company name and logo must be in the pamphlet to claim ownership of it. They imply that your pamphlet's message is from your organization.

2. Product, Service, or Event Info

Info about your product, service, or event is the most important of your pamphlet. Make sure to provide clear details about it. For example, if it's an event, you must specify its date, time, and venue.

3. Call to Action

The Call to Action or CTA is what entices people to buy your product/service or attend your event. It should be something like "Order Now," "Buy Your Tickets Now," or "Shop Now."

4. Contact Info

People might have further questions or inquiries about your product, service, or event. That's why you must include your company's contact info on the pamphlet. Specify your telephone number, email address, social media pages, and mailing address.
