

Banners

Banners are some of the most versatile forms of physical advertising materials. They come in many different shapes, materials, and sizes to suit their purpose and location.

Banner Definition & Meaning

A banner is a visual medium that bears a message or graphic design either on a large piece of cloth or on an advertisement heading on a web page.

That means banners are used by companies and organizations to advertise to a target demographic or artistically convey concepts.

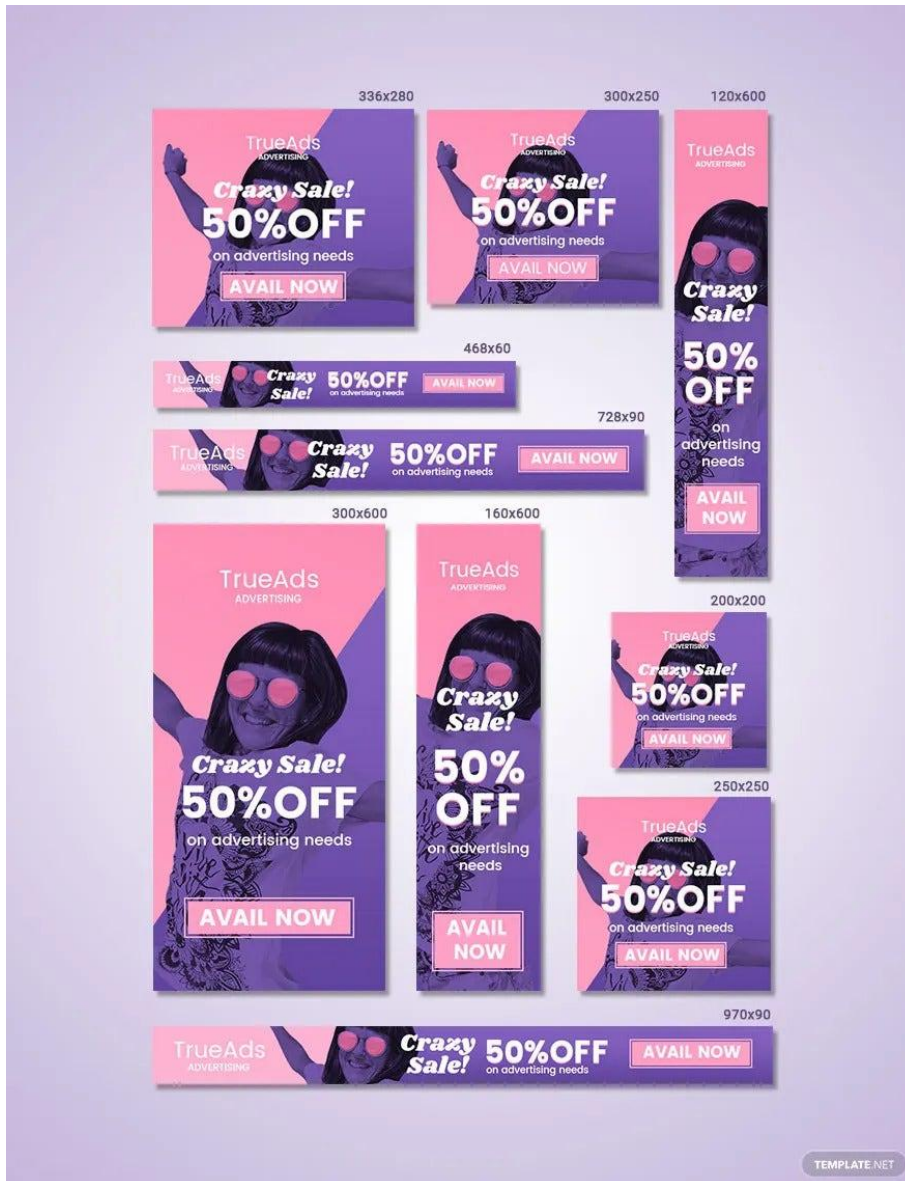

What Is a Banner?

Physical banners are large printouts made of fabric or any strip of material, while digital banners are used in advertisement headings with decorative images. With that said, a banner can be made of anything as long as you don't remove the main logo, slogan, symbol, or key message it bears. People use these banners for advertising, decorative, and symbolic needs.

10 Types of Banners

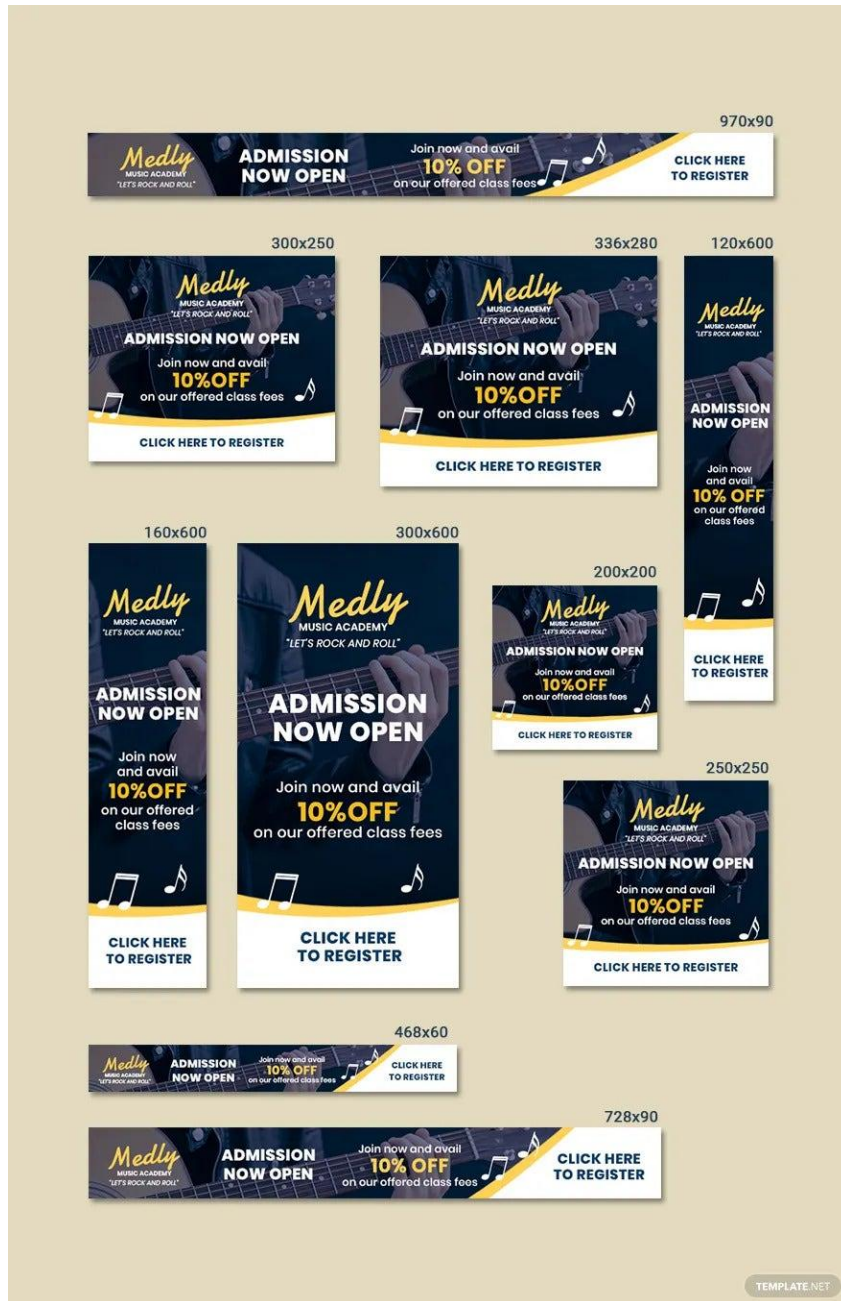

Advertising Banners

People incorporate digital advertising banners and physical ad banners for promoting goods, services, and so much more. Advertising banners can be of any format or layout such as roll-up banners, vector graphics banners, and clipart banners. The key is to balance the message you need to convey and your company's brand in the ad banner.

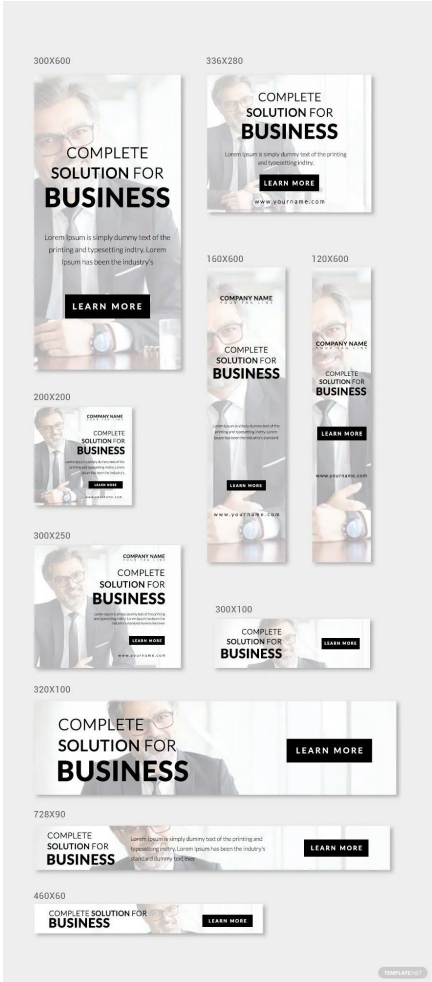

School Banners

Use school banners to promote educational services or adorn a campus. You may design a school banner with the institution's insignia inserted into the banner or perhaps you add a school campus photo as the banner's background. Nevertheless, the banner and its elements should be in HD whether it is online or in print.

Business Banners

You can bet that business banners are effective for promoting various goods and services from commercial enterprises. A staple custom business banner is known for its professional look. However, don't forget that these banners are image-based rather than text-based so don't put too many words in a banner.

HR Banners

Human resource services are crucial for any business to operate. A company can use HR banners to attract business clients and advertise various HR services. These banners, whether in PNG, JPG, GIF, or PSD format, can help you connect with target audiences upon dealing with recruitment and interviews.

Birthday Banners

Festive birthday banners typically provide details about the main celebrants or act purely as party decorations. If you are to wish a happy birthday to a celebrant, bring some life into the birthday banner itself. Examples include adding pictures of balloons, inserting animated happy birthday ribbon GIFs, and including lots of colors in a banner.

Gaming Banners

The content of a gaming banner usually promotes content for video games and esports including Minecraft, Nintendo Switch Sports, and NBA 2K21. It can also advertise traditional sports like the FIFA World Cup, Super Bowl, and Olympic Games. An easy banner design is to include sports or gaming equipment in the picture.

Fashion Banners

Stylish fashion banners provide the size and flexibility necessary for showcasing models, clothing, shops, and more. Looking elegant, classy, and of course, fashionable should be observed upon seeing the fashion banner. Your banner could make use of high-quality images of models, framed transparent runways, and other themed outfit looks.

Service Banners

A service banner provides information about a company's commercial services. You can find price points, service descriptions, and company details on service banners. Just make sure the content of your banner, may it be sales talk, branding, or an ad, is clear enough to read and big enough to attract attention.

Restaurant Banners

With the help of restaurant banners, a food-service establishment can promote its delicious offers. Be sure to download and insert the best food photography shots of your restaurant's dishes into the banner to appetize audiences. Also, restaurant banners are useful to share discounts, promos, and special announcements.

YouTube Banners

A YouTube banner is a decorative header image on a YouTube channel's profile page. There are different website banners to promote any site, not just YouTube. Examples include Facebook banners, Instagram banners, Twitter banners, Tumblr banners, and Twitch banners.

Banner Uses, Purpose, Importance

Banners vary in function, purpose, and significance. You must understand the different uses, reasons, and importance of a banner before even making the banner itself. Some of the major highlights for you to understand about banners are the following:

Advertising

People incorporate different printed banners in a wide array of settings, including but not limited to shopping malls, birthday parties, and school campuses. The same goes for all the virtual banners around the web, which are present on all kinds of websites. Banners serve as staple advertising materials for business needs, whether it's in a digital or physical format.

Promotion

Products, events, real estate, sports, politics, appreciation, and employment are only a few examples of what a business or organization can advertise with banners. You can even use certain banner types at events and establishments as decorations. So whether you promote a Halloween party, IT & software company opening, or just about anything, banners can help make some noise about it.

Versatility

Like other forms of advertising, banners provide plenty of flexibility. However, banners are unique in terms of how to use them as either physical printouts or virtual imagery. Whether it's material or digital, you can create premade or blank banners in a variety of shapes and sizes.

What's in a Banner? Parts?

Tagline

The tagline provides a catchy and memorable hook. It leaves a strong impression that lingers in a reader's mind.

Focal Point

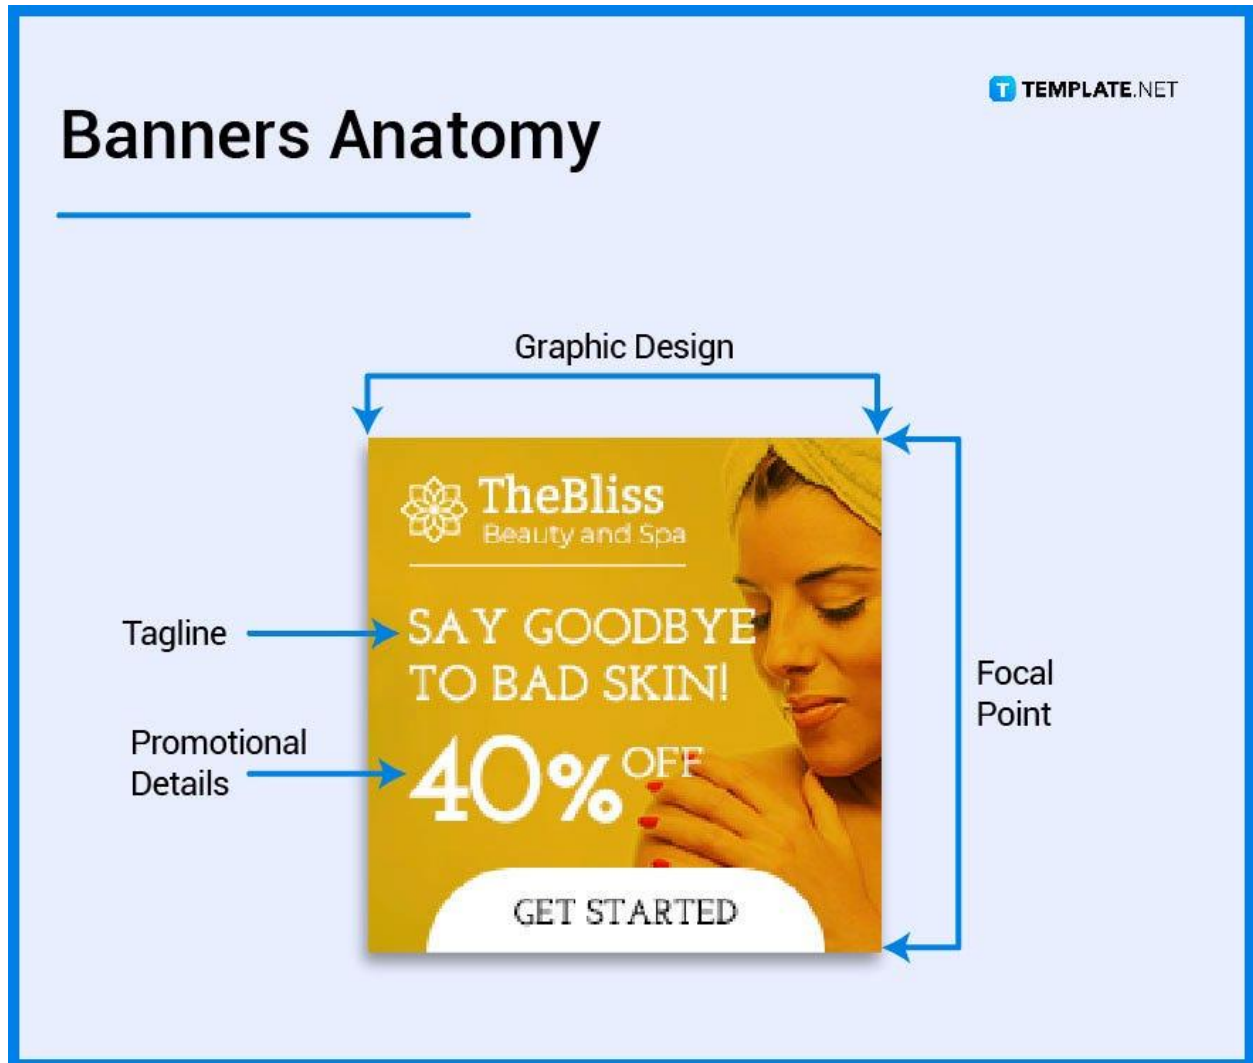

A banner needs to grab a passerby's attention. From a photo to a text, the focal point or subject of focus can be anything.

Graphic Design

A banner's graphic design gives it life. Shapes and colors can make the written content have more impact.

Promotional Details

Promotional details are the primary text of a banner. This part needs to get the point across in a streamlined fashion.

How to Design a Banner

1. Choose a Banner Size
2. Decide the purpose of the banner

3. Select the Banner Template
4. Add an appealing color palette
5. Write the necessary text
6. Print your banner on high-quality material

The infographic is titled "How to Design a Banner?" and is set against a light blue background with a dark blue border. In the top right corner, there is a logo for "TEMPLATE.NET" consisting of a blue square with a white letter 'T' followed by the text "TEMPLATE.NET". The main title is in a large, bold, black font. Below the title is a horizontal line. The steps are presented as a vertical sequence of six horizontal bars. Each bar has a number in a small blue circle on its left end and the step description in the center. The bars alternate in color: light blue for odd-numbered steps (1, 3, 5) and light orange for even-numbered steps (2, 4, 6). The numbers 1 through 6 are placed in small orange circles on the right end of each bar.

Banner Vs. Poster

People create banners out of durable materials (e.g., vinyl, mesh) and set them up by hanging them or propping them up.

Meanwhile, posters are printed out on paper and simply stuck onto surfaces.

What's the Difference Between a Banner, Brochure, and Billboard?

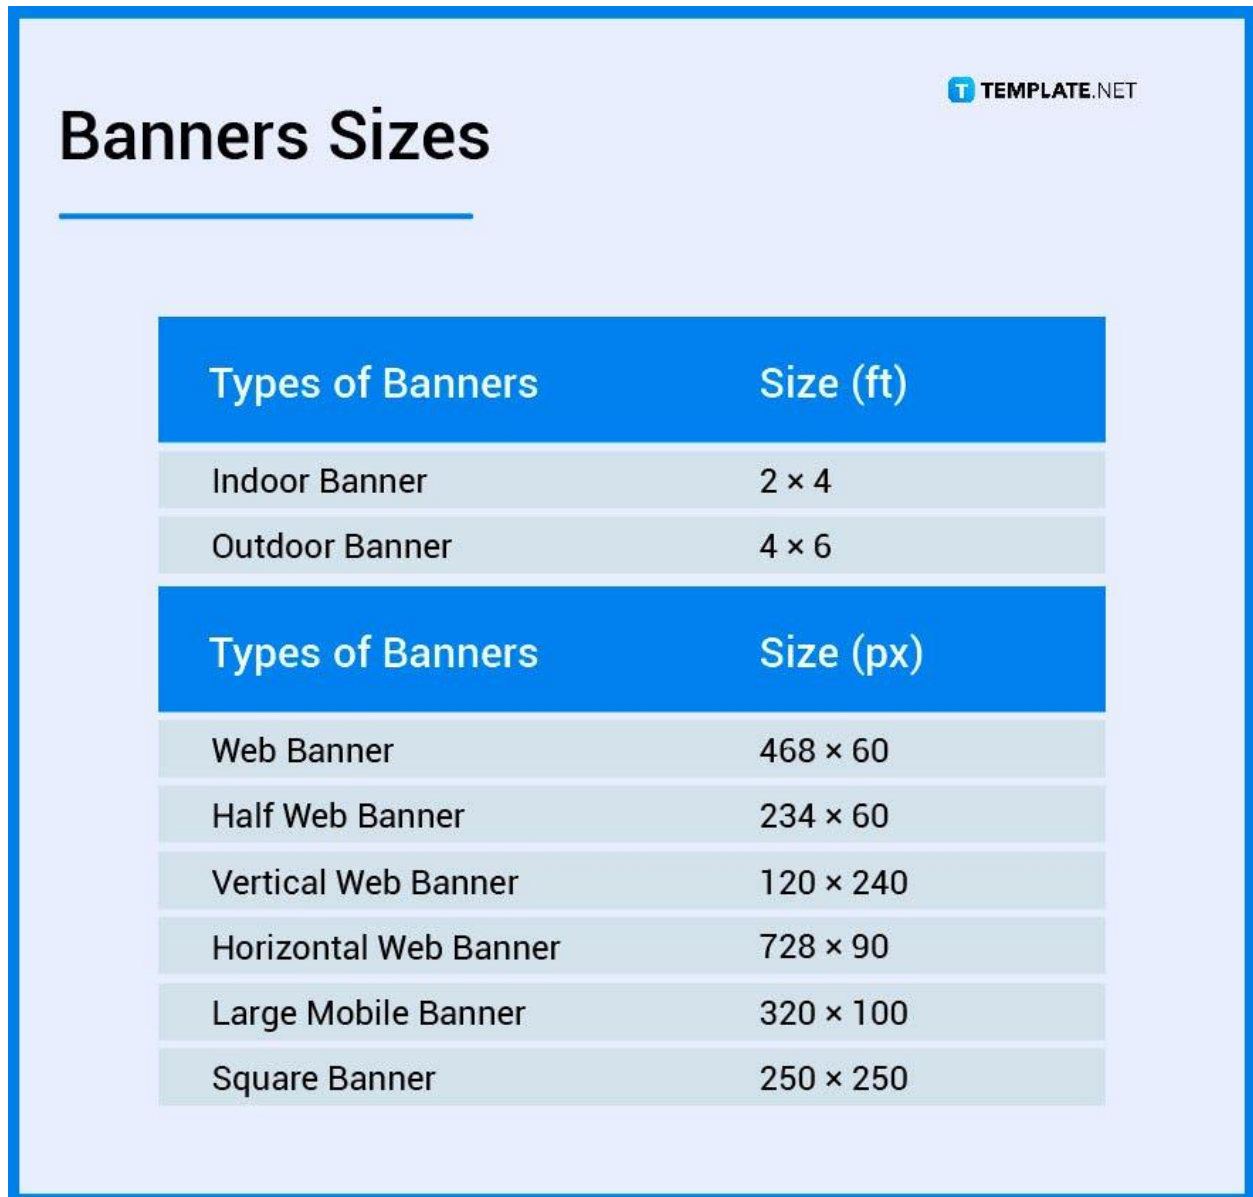

Banners come in a wide range of shapes and sizes and are either hung or propped up.

Brochures are small handouts that incorporate a variety of foldable formats.

Billboards are printed on large, durable materials and found high up in urban settings and beside rural roads.

Banner Sizes

You'll find a variety of banner sizes for different needs. You must ensure what the banner is for before even designing a banner to meet your goals and objectives. Below are just a few examples:

The screenshot shows a webpage with a light blue background and a blue border. In the top right corner, there is a logo for 'TEMPLATE.NET'. The main heading is 'Banners Sizes' with a horizontal line underneath. Below the heading are two tables. The first table lists 'Types of Banners' and 'Size (ft)'. The second table lists 'Types of Banners' and 'Size (px)'. The tables are styled with blue headers and light blue rows.
