Ideas for Business Email Newsletter with Examples

A business email newsletter is distributed internally and externally, depending on its content. By creating this newsletter you are able to share engaging content, promote sales and drive traffic to a business' website. Take for example this speaker email newsletter which is aimed to promote the business and services that are offered.

The screenshot shows an email newsletter for 'THE SPEAKER CIRCLE'. At the top left is the logo, which consists of a microphone icon and the text 'THE SPEAKER CIRCLE'. Below the logo is a large image of a speaker addressing a large audience in a conference hall. A blue banner at the bottom of this image contains the text 'Helping You to Speak Up!'. Below the image is the 'ABOUT US' section, which includes a short paragraph about the organization's mission. This is followed by a quote: 'If you do not understand the topic of your presentation, then the audience will never understand as well.' The 'OUR COURSES' section features four course cards: 'Public Speaking' ($39.00), 'Guest Speaker' ($21.00), 'Qualifying Leads' ($39.00), and 'Booth Assistants' (Free). A 'View Courses' button is located below the course cards. The footer contains the 'CONTACT US' section with the company logo, social media icons, contact information (phone, address, website, email), and a privacy policy link. The footer also includes a copyright notice for 2020.
