HER LIFE STORY

Mina has recently passed away this February 7, 2058 at 3:00 p.m. due to colon cancer.

She was born on December 16, 1999 in Upper East Side, New York City. She was a chief content editor for El Comercio Magazine and a mother of two. She worked in the publishing industry for 30 years.

She is survived by her sons, Jim and Henry. They currently reside in the New York area where they continue to live their lives in peace.

She was quite fond of Chinese food as well as music. Loved ones will always remember her for being genuine and having the heart to help others.

In celebration of Mina's memorable and well-lived life, we kindly invite everyone to attend the funeral service to be held at Waldorf Estates on February 10, 2058 from 3 p.m. to 8 p.m.

SERVICE ORDER

Prior to the official cremation, there will be a ceremony to commemorate our beloved Mina's passing from this life to the next. The funeral for Mina will start at 3 p.m.

FAQs

What do you say at a one year memorial?

A first death anniversary is always memorable. You can recall a favorite or treasured memory of the person who passed away a year ago.

Should the cause of death be in a obituary?

It is not necessary to indicate the cause of death in an obituary.

How many days should an obituary run?

Generally, an obituary can run for about 3 to 5 days in publication. This gives enough time to disseminate the information about the memorial or funeral service.

Who gets an obituary?

An obituary is created for a recently deceased person. The surviving family members are usually the ones who have the obituary published.

Can an obituary be done for someone years later?

In special cases, it may be published weeks, months, or even years after the person's death. An obituary is essentially an act of remembering and honoring a departed loved one, regardless of when they died.

What information is needed in an obituary?

An obituary should contain the complete name of the deceased, date of birth, and date of death. It usually also comes with a list of surviving family members and information on the memorial service.

Why do they call it obituary?

The word comes from the Latin term 'obit' or 'obitus' which means death.

How do obituaries work?

Obituaries are normally published in newspapers and similar publications. It is meant to notify the public about the death of a particular person.

Who is listed first in an obituary?

The spouse or parents (for unmarried persons) are typically listed first in an obituary. The other members of the immediate family are then listed in order.

What does an obituary do?

An obituary is a formal notice of death. It informs the general public about the recent death of an individual, along with details about the memorial service and funeral.
