

SBAR Sizes

SBAR sizes, unlike other documents, have fewer options to choose from. The following are the sizes commonly used when making SBARs.

SBAR Sizes Standard

Letter

Letter, which is 8.5 inches wide and 11 inches long, is the most common paper size used for SBAR reports or cases in a clinic or hospital. It is preferable since it encapsulates information about a situation, project, or in a hospital setting, a patient. SBARs in this paper size are usually partnered with a clipboard to hold a sheet of paper into place.

A4

Another convenient alternative, due to its availability in the market, is the A4. The paper size is a little narrower but longer (8.3 × 11.7 inches) than Letter. An SBAR doesn't require a specific paper size unless the institution or establishment implements this for brand maintaining purposes.

Pocket Card

A pocket card (5 × 7 inches) SBAR is not typical in any workplace. Nonetheless, it is useful for nurses or other healthcare professionals to take notes of patients' status and observations about them for personal reference or consumption. If in case that information is significant to an issue at present and needs a formal report about it, they can always revise the report and transfer it to a larger-sized paper.

Poster Size

A poster size (20 × 30 inches) SBAR is seldom used in hospitals. Though this size or format can be taken advantage of in a school setting, especially in preschool and grade school. Children are more appreciative of objects and learning materials that can hold their attention, allowing them to absorb the lessons they need to learn.

But, fortunately, because of technological advancements making way for high-quality computers and printers, ready-to-use SBAR templates are printed in large batches for convenience.
