Saint Nicholas, who was born in a village called Patara, was a kind Christian bishop of Myra who was said to help the needy by selling his possessions and giving what he earned to the poor as a result he devoted his life to serving others particularly the less fortunate. Thus he became the inspiration of Father Christmas otherwise known as Santa Klaus. The Dutch believe that during this feast day he would come and visit, dressed in his red bishop robes, and would distribute presents to good kids and lumps of coals to bad ones, therefore, reinforcing his image as the patron of Christmas which is commemorated with gift-giving and other festivities.
